FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Do sheds require a building permit?

Yes, a building permit is required for installation/construction of a shed. The proposed shed must conform to zoning by-law setback requirements.

What is a certified Plot Plan?

A certified plot plan is a stamped drawing, drawn to a measurable scale by a State Registered Engineer or a State Registered Land Surveyor. There are several features included on a plot plan, which includes all the buildings, decks, porches, sheds, pools, and other landscape features, as well as the boundaries of the property and the total square footage.

How long is a building permit valid for?

Building Permits will become null and void if construction work is not started within six months of the date the permit is issued or if the permit is not renewed annually.

Can I begin work once I submit my application?

No. Work cannot proceed until the permit has been issued.

How long does it take to obtain a permit?

Depending on the complexity of your project, a building permit application can take up to 30 days to be approved.

Can I call for plumbing and electrical inspections?

No. These calls must be made by the licensed plumber or electrician. The amount of notice required is stated in their respective codes.
