Barney Quinn explained the less than 2% traffic impact from the development. Bill Butts discussed the future roadway in the Master Plan as an extension of Century Drive that will be necessary in the future. Ron Thompson with VanMar Associates was available for questions.

Roxanne Hemphill moved that the Planning Commission conditionally approve the preliminary subdivision plans for Brittany Manor at Twin Arch Village to allow the project to move forward to a final phase in the following conditions:

1. The Planning Commission waive strict application of the park and open space adequacy standard as the development project meets the standard for a waiver by providing 7.47 acres of park and open space of the projected population from residents in the proposed development project.

6. NEW BUSINESS

7. UNFINISHED BUSINESS

➤ 2018 Planning Commission Work Plan/Goals

- Master Plan Implementation/Prioritization of Goals

Bill Butts discussed the upgrade of the Town Master Plan on a regular basis and summarized the differences between this Master Plan upgrade compared to others in the past. This current upgrade involved an extensive dialog with all of the Commissions. Bob King stated that the Economic Development Committee has a copy of the Implementation/Prioritization of Goals Chart but have not had a discussion on it yet. Frank Dertzbaugh spoke to the Planning Commission explained that the suggestions from the Planning Commission are important to the Economic Development Commission.

➤ Consideration of Planning Commission Rules of Procedure

Heather Smith passed out the Land Use Article 66 - Section 2 105 C, which requires the Planning Commission to create guidelines that govern its meetings. There is a Planning Commission Duties and Responsibilities Document with the Maryland Planning Commission Association website that should be handed out to each new Commission member. She believes that it is an excellent document that the Planning Commission should use because it is an association that we belong to.

Councilman Bob King has an issue with communications, believing that he is being denied the opportunity to talk about Planning Commission matters to the people. Judi Olinger explained that it would only prohibit him from saying things “on behalf of the Planning Commission.” Bob King disagreed with the interpretation of the verbiage. Leslie Dickinson explained that listening to constituents is important and sharing what the topic of the discussion is, but not having conversations prior to the meeting discussing topics on the agenda outside of the meeting. She stated that the verbiage can change if needed. Bill Butts also rejects this formal structure of language. Leslie suggested this get run by the Town Attorney because there’s so much legality confusion. Is it within their authority for the Planning Commission to implement this and if not than what is the Land Use Article Referencing?
